My name is Hyewon Choi and I will be attending the University of Southern California as a spring admit. I am really passionate about helping the community and participating in creating space for various opportunities. Throughout my high school career I was fortunate to be able to be involved in many programs like raising funds to send to Liberty in North Korea and even learning about how youth can be involved in civic engagement at United Way. The different platforms I was involved in created a time for growth and knowledge which is why I am looking forward to bringing that same momentum to LAYFTC.

As a former Youth Drug Abuse Prevention Program member and seeing a family member struggle with smoking addiction, I am aware of the importance of addressing the issue and creating awareness. I hope that through this program I am able to meet new people while also learning more about how my community is impacted by substance use.
